

- 1) Within seven sitting days, a motion must be placed before Parliament to confirm the declaration of emergency per 58(1) of the Act. This Order will be debated the next sitting day, the debate will not be interrupted, and voted on when the House is ready. If negatived, the Order is rescinded.
 - a. If either House is not sitting, it must be recalled within seven days to take up the motion (Senate is not presently sitting).
 - b. In the meantime, any order or regulation made under the Act must be tabled in Parliament within two sitting days after it is made. (s61(1))
 - i. If ten members of the Senate or twenty members of the House of Commons, as the case may be, is filed with the Speaker thereof, that House of Parliament shall take up and consider the motion within three sitting days after it is filed.
 - ii. If both Houses reject or amend the order or regulation, it will end or be changed.
- 2) Should the Order be amended, similarly seven sitting days to confirm the amendment.
- 3) A Parliamentary Review committee shall be established, but the timeline is not clear.
 - a. If a regulation or order cannot be Gazetted, it must be immediately referred to this committee.
 - b. The committee is made up of one member from each recognized Party in the House and one member from each Party in the Senate.
- 4) At any point, if ten members of the Senate or twenty members of the House of Commons, as the case may be, make a motion that the Emergency Order be negatived, and it is filed with the Speaker thereof, that House of Parliament shall take up and consider the motion within three sitting days after it is filed (this can happen every three days as far as I can tell, but officials advice is it cannot be attempted until after the first motion)
- 5) The Parliamentary Review Committee shall report or cause to be reported the results of its review under subsection (1) to each House of Parliament at least once every sixty days while the declaration of emergency is in effect and, in any case,
 - a. (a) within three sitting days after a motion for revocation of the declaration is filed under subsection 59(1);
 - b. (b) within seven sitting days after a proclamation continuing the declaration is issued; and
 - c. (c) within seven sitting days after the expiration of the declaration or the revocation of the declaration by the Governor in Council.
